THE OBJECTIVES OF RED CROSS

IN common with Red Cross throughout the world, the objectives of the Rhodesia Red Cross are as follows:

To furnish aid to the sick and wounded in time of war.

At all times to work for the improvement of health, the prevention of disease and the relief of suffering, regardless of race, class, religion or political consideration.

In particular, Rhodesia Red Cross endeavours to—

* 1. encourage the enrolment of persons of all races.
* 2. raise, train and administer Voluntary Aid Detachments and to organise Member Groups in accordance with the regulations of the Rhodesia Red Cross.
* 3. seek to inspire boys and girls of school age with the ideals of the Junior Red Cross, viz. health, service and international friendship and to form Junior Units wherever possible.
* 4. maintain an organisation capable of rapid and effective expansion to meet the needs of war, disease or other emergency.
* 5. to be prepared to supply trained auxiliaries for the medical services of the armed Forces and for other medical and nursing services.
* 6. Co-operate with the Government and Local Authorities in work within the scope of the Red Cross, but not to subsidise schemes, or assume responsibilities, which are the legitimate functions of those authorities.
* 7. arouse and maintain public interest in the work of the Red Cross and to organise the raising of funds.
* 8. undertake work for the improvement of health and the prevention of disease, including courses of instruction open to the public.
* 9. provide the widest possible knowledge of the Geneva Conventions, ensuring that the significance of the Red Cross emblem is generally understood and to take action to prevent misuse of the emblem.

INTRODUCTION

The Review and Annual Report for 1974 is presented as a kaleidoscope of services which the Red Cross in Rhodesia undertakes. These varied activities have developed from a need which arose and was not being dealt with by anyone else. The Red Cross is, as its founder desired, a reservoir of individuals who, through the gift of their voluntary time, talent and energy and their warm human concern, have contributed to the lowering of racial and economic barriers, and in the spirit of neighbourliness has helped to provide an ever-changing process inspired by the calls of conscience and shaped by the pressure of the times.

The Report encompasses the Divisions and Groups as indicated on the map, which also includes the numerous points where individuals trained at National and Divisional level have returned to remote rural areas.

The continuance and expansion of Red Cross work depend on the generosity of the trusts, firms and individuals who subscribe to our funds, and on the assistance we obtain in the form of grants-in-aid from Government for specific projects.

The Rhodesia Red Cross is deeply indebted to all those who give of their time and their generosity for those in need within our community.

TRAINING AND HEALTH EDUCATION are the most important functions we undertake, involving as they do the training of individuals to improve their health by the prevention of disease. 9,090 certificates were issued in 28 centres all over Rhodesia during the past year. The subject of First Aid was a priority, with Home Nursing, Child Care, Hygiene, Nutrition, Accident Prevention and Drill and Rescue following. Individuals participating in these courses included our Voluntary Aid personnel, who are a permanent nucleus of trained Red Cross Members who would be called out in time of emergency, the Junior Red Cross, ambulance drivers in some areas, Police and Police Reservists, employees in industry, mining and agriculture, teachers and teacher training college students, youth organisations, women's organisations and clubs, boarding school matrons, health assistants and members of the public in the cities, farming and mining areas, including the Tribal Trust Lands.

There was a noticeable increase in the demand for training during the year and with the road accident figures of 6,512 for eleven months and industrial accidents at 41,701 for the year, there is room for much more effort and interest on the part of the public.

THE TRAINING CENTRE at Westwood continues to take 56 trainees monthly for a 3½ week course. The bulk of the courses are for women from the Tribal Trust Lands, the majority of whom come from established clubs where their knowledge will be passed on to others, especially Child Care, Nutrition, Hygiene and Accident Prevention.

Teachers' Courses are also run at the Centre and it is from this source that our Junior Red Cross membership and training increase with the teachers returning to their schools to set up courses which we follow up and examine each year from August to December.

Industrial First Aid and Accident Prevention courses are held twice a year and industry is showing an increasing interest in this aspect of training.

The need for training African school leavers, whose numbers greatly increase each year, is actively attacked by the Matabeleland Division, who run twenty-four groups, some of them on a full time basis.

Teachers learning First Aid in order to establish Junior Red Cross units in the Tribal Trust Lands.

www.rhodesia.me.uk

JUNIOR RED CROSS units are established in the majority of schools in the cities and towns and take the form of an afternoon activity in a school classroom or in a group activity at the Red Cross Hall. Training in First Aid, Drill and Rescue, Home Nursing, Accident Prevention and Child Care culminates in practical examinations. 3,893 certificates were issued to successful members.

Juniors practise what they have learnt by attending public functions where they administer First Aid under the supervision of adult members, as well as doing First Aid duties on their own sports fields, at swimming galas, parades, fetes and athletic sports meetings. The high standard of examination passes resulted in 186 proficiency and 52 Grand proficiency Badges being issued.

This year the Matabeleland Cadets have continued their lectures and demonstrations in Drill and Rescue and have entered the President's Award Scheme. They have formed their own committee for discussing and undertaking duties, welfare work, fund-raising and for the exploration and camping required for their Bronze Awards, which 13 of them gained. Other subjects studied for the Awards were ecology, stamp collecting, stone collecting, minerals, cookery, needlework; projects in each subject were undertaken and inspected and marked by experts. This enthusiasm and achievement has sparked off an interest by other Junior Red Cross links and it is considered that the spirit of leadership that has evolved is a most encouraging sign.

Junior Red Cross Cadets from Matabeleland received their President's Award Bronze Medals. Mrs. J. Anderson, SRN. has been in charge of their training.

The three African Teachers seconded to us by the Ministry of Education have had a very active year. The teacher seconded to Salisbury works full time giving lectures in First Aid to twenty-two schools. In Bulawayo the same number of schools were covered and in addition several clubs. The National Organiser ran a Teachers Course, which teachers from all over the country attended, taking First Aid. The schedule below gives an indication of the increase in teaching undertaken, which includes follow-up.

WELFARE SERVICES. The range of welfare services to individuals is extensive and it is only possible to mention them briefly.

Trolley Shops, which are taken around hospital wards and institutions for the aged, carry toilet requisites, writing materials, sweets, cigarettes, in fact anything that a bed-ridden patient may wish to purchase. Many of these operate three times weekly.

Kiosks built in the grounds of the hospital provide ambulant out-patients and visitors with a variety of goods which vary from baby vests and nappies to tinned fish, sugar, stamps and so on.

Medical Loan Cupboards contain medical equipment which is available to the public on hire for use of invalids being nursed at home—wheelchairs, bed-pans, crutches, infra-red lamps, and bed rests are some of the articles available. 382 items went out on loan in one centre, which gives an indication of the usefulness of this service.

Out-Patient Teas are served in the hospitals in Gwelo and Bulawayo and provide a much welcomed service for old aged pensioners as well as others. Bulawayo recorded that 3839 teas were served during the year!

Transport. The purpose of this service is to provide old aged pensioners and other invalids who have no transport with a method of getting to medical treatment, such as physiotherapy, eye and dental clinics as well as out-patient treatment. A large number of patients depend on Red Cross lifts to attend continuous and prolonged treatment, official transport as well as that provided by willing voluntary drivers being used extensively. Actual transports in the Salisbury Red Cross numbered 1,180 and mileage recorded in Bulawayo specifically for this service was 16 049 whilst the number of people transported were 1 220 in the year.

Library and Magazines is a regular and much needed service in hospitals, homes for the aged, etc. In one area alone 63 x 3 kg parcels of magazines were despatched to lonely outposts and 38 bundles to clubs, hostels and hospitals.

Winter Relief. 170 parcels containing blankets, jerseys and warm clothing were individually packed, marked and distributed to needy African families by Salisbury Red Cross. This is done in conjunction with the Department of Social Welfare. Umtali Division sent knitted and crocheted blankets to the Jairos Jiri Association Clinic in Rusape.

Fort Victoria operate a cottage industry in the form of two knitting machines which are used to make huge quantities of excellent quality jerseys. African girls have been trained and produce a variety of styles sold locally and in quantity in Gwelo, the Lowveld and elsewhere. This is an excellent project,providing employment for the girls as well as providing 95 new jerseys for the needy during winter.

Glendale Group donated fifty blankets to the families in Chiweshe Reserve at the time when moves were being made into protected villages.

Feeding Schemes. Gwelo continue to order, cook and serve a meal every day for destitute African children. 26,310 meals were supplied. A grant is obtained towards this service from the Municipality and much help is received from Rhodesian Alloys.

Knitting for the needy being distributed in FORT VICTORIA.

Clinics. Matabeland Division continues to run two Clinics. The Airport Clinic, which is 12 miles from town, provides a patient as well as a well-baby immunisation service and advice is given. 1 270 patients were seen by an S.R.N. who undertakes this duty voluntarily. Hope Fountain Clinic is 15 miles from town and provides the usual treatments as well as immunisation and drugs for mental out-patients.

Physiotherapy Clinics were continued in four townships—Kambuzuma, Mufakose, Mabvuku and Highfields—on a weekly basis. Children received treatment and were referred to Harari Hospital for corrective surgery and fitting of calipers. Those treated are polios, cerebral palsy, birth deformities, talipes and muscular weakness. All children receive protein additives and vitamin syrup. A Christmas party is organised annually and a gift given to each child.

HOLIDAY FOR THE AGED

The third annual holiday for the aged saw 21 of our senior citizens, coming from Fort Victoria, Gwelo, Que Que, Marandellas and Umvukwes, being taken by bus to Inyanga. They were accompanied by a Red Cross Member from each area, as well as the Headquarters' Director and an S.R.N. Member from Gwelo. Six days were packed with outings and entertainment, some of it provided by Inyanga residents. For many this was the only holiday they had been on in ten or more years and the individuals and service clubs, as well as Red Cross, saw and heard ample evidence of its success and worthwhileness.

Wedding follows Red Cross holiday in Inyanga of Gwelo pair who are now living in Rusape.

The Salisbury Division also took a party of 12 old age pensioners from their area to I nyanga. Two members of this party were taken very ill, but fortunately the Nursing Officer had accompanied the group. The remainder much enjoyed their holiday and have since been visited.

TRACING

One of the international services provided by the Red Cross is that of tracing lost relatives for serious domestic or health reasons. Here in Rhodesia during the past year, in addition to various requests to or from Britain, Belgium, Cechoslovakia, America, Australia, South Africa and Mocambique, we were inundated with requests for information on relatives in Cyprus directly after the troubles there. With the organisation and cooperation of the Central Tracing Agency at the International Committee of the Red Cross Headquarters in Geneva we were able to reply to a good percentage of the enquiries received.

Tracing by the Red Cross is done in a very discreet manner. When we locate a person enquired for, no details of address or circumstances are conveyed to the enquirer without prior permission from that individual. It is realised that some people wish to "disappear from the face of the earth" and this desire is respected when it is very occasionally met. In the majority of cases, however, the results of our enquiries lead to benefits for both parties.

MOCAMBIQUE

During the night of September 12th, 1974 an urgent appeal for medical supplies for Lourenco Marques Hospital was received by Mr. N. de Rougemont, the resident I.C.R.C. Delegate. With the assistance of the Salisbury Red Cross Division, whose Nursing Officer ordered substantial supplies of anti-biotic and painkilling drugs as well as other medical supplies and blood plasma, an aircraft was chartered by the I.C.R.C. and the supplies flown to Lourenco Marques in the early hours of the morning.

Considerable amounts of foodstuffs were sent to Lourenco Marques by the I.C.R.C. and the Rhodesia Red Cross. Six crates of clothing donated by members of the public were also dispatched and carried free by DETA.

The whole exercise was handled efficiently and swiftly by the Division, who also made preparation for an influx of refugees, although this was not required.

PROTECTED VILLAGES

The International Red Cross donated and shipped 30 tonnes of full cream powdered milk, at a cost of $39 900, for distribution to all children aged 1 to 5 years and to malnourished children above 5 years. The Ministry of Health is distributing the milk through its clinics. Development Workers employed by the Ministry of Internal Affairs were given a month's Health Education course by Red Cross Headquarters and in the photographs are assisting with the distribution.

HOME NURSE AIDES, continue to provide a most worthwhile service to members of the public in towns and in rural areas. Nurse Aides can attend to routine nursing procedures such as bed-making, blanket bathing, feeding, prevention of bed sores, care of personal hygiene, laundry and the administration of medicines. Mainly, they are needed with geriatric patients, but requests for their services have come for convalescents, patients with limited movement, nervous breakdowns and the care of children. Several homes for the aged have found that the training we provide in Hygiene and Practical Home Nursing is useful in cases of short-term illness. The patience and cheerfulness that our Nurse Aides give to the elderly is very worthwhile, particularly in cases where lonely and isolated people are concerned. The fees charged are extremely moderate and in many cases day and night aides are employed.

Councils have taken over the thirty other Red Cross Clinics which were established in 1963.

HOME NURSING. Members of our Voluntary Aid Detachments continue their annual training by undertaking courses of lectures. To make this training realistic and worthwhile, V.A.D.'s carry out regular duties in Nursing Homes and Hospitals and, in this way, familiarise themselves with nursing procedures, including the nursing of unconscious patients, as well as aspects of routine nursing of geriatric and long-term patients.

INVALID TRAVEL

Invalid travel assistance is frequently called for by the public, both for short journeys in Rhodesia involving Red Cross ambulances and also for international travel necessitating the help and co-operation of other Red Cross Societies.

Sometimes these requests come at short notice and arrangements have to be made by telegram or cable. There is a tremendous spirit of involvement and rapport among Red Cross workers all over the world and no call for aid outside our borders to assist the elderly or infirm when travelling abroad has been refused. This in spite of the fact that departure and arrival times of both trains and planes can be very inconvenient on occasion.

AMBULANCE SERVICE

Hartley and District Red Cross Group organises an ambulance service on a 24-hour a day basis throughout the year. The ambulance was converted from a second-hand Land-Rover a few years ago and was fully equipped by the Hartley Red Cross with the financial support of the local community and service clubs.The ambulance is run by volunteers, some giving their personal service when called upon and some being sponsored by firms in the district. This calls for the assistance of 28 persons, many of them S.R.N.'s On occasion great distances are travelled, sometimes involving trips to Salisbury when patients have to be transported to Salisbury for specialised treatment. A service of this kind requires constant supervision and organisation, particularly in these days of frequent military call-ups, but results have shown that it is greatly appreciated and well supported.

BLOOD DONOR SERVICE. The Red Cross is responsible for obtaining all the blood required for the African Hospitals in Salisbury and Umtali. In both cities a full-time S.R.N. with a team of volunteers and a vehicle, which contains stretchers and equipment, operate a mobile blood collecting unit. Visits are made to industrial firms, factories, schools, prisons and agricultural colleges. The blood collected is handed over to the Transfusion Services for cross-matching. Haemoglobin tests were done on 17 386 donors and the total number of pints collected in Salisbury was 15 594. In Umtali 2 431 pints were collected. In other areas Red Cross volunteers help in the Blood Donor Service and badges are supplied to blood donors when requested.

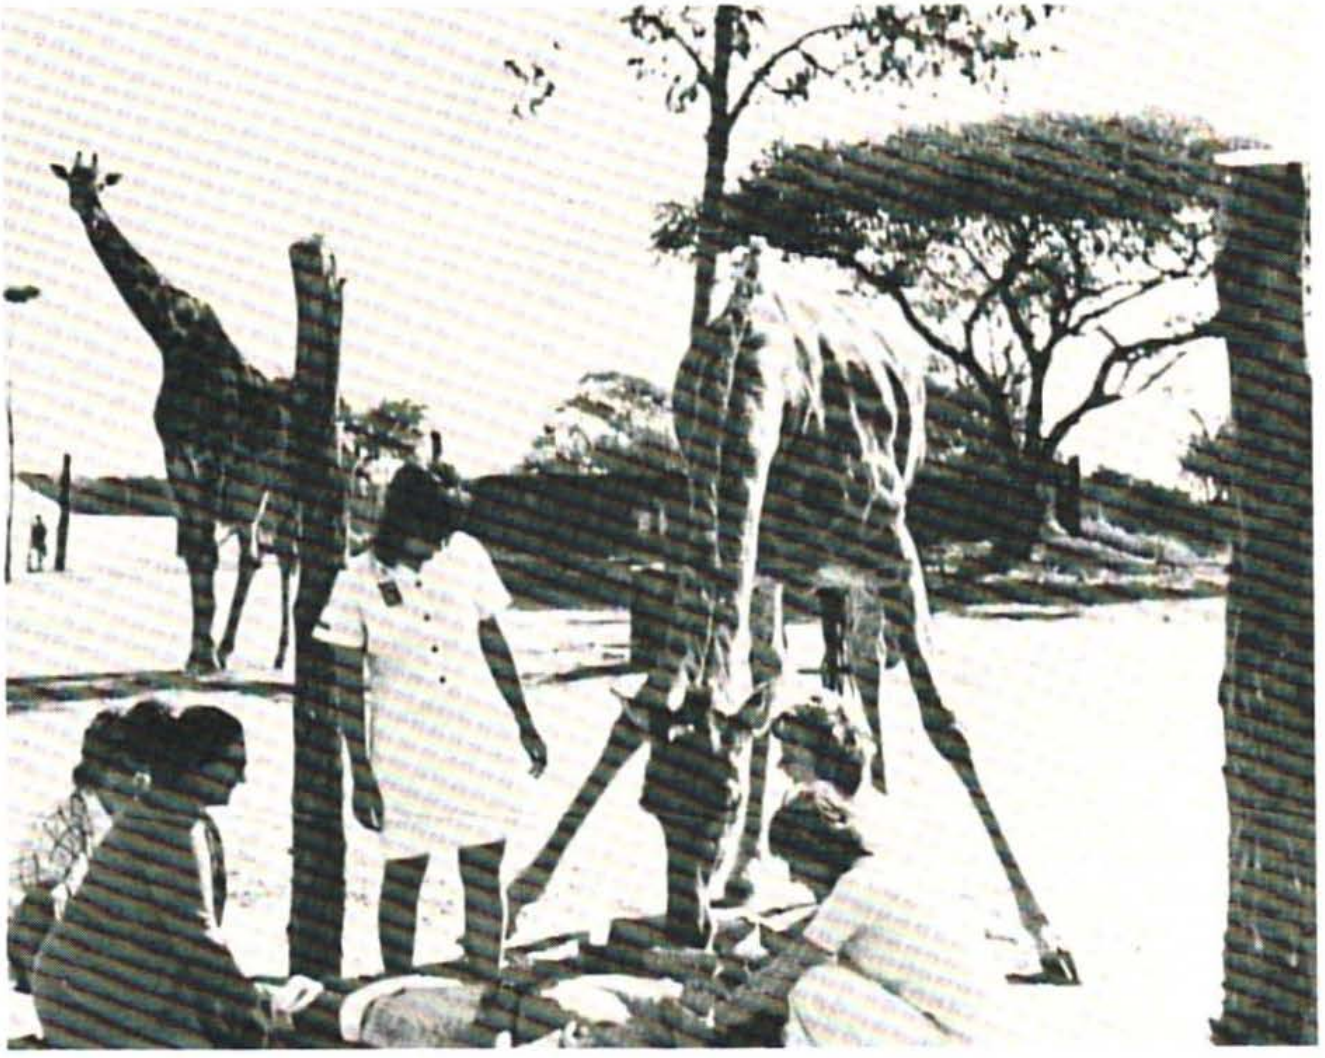
CIVIL DEFENCE

Training of members of the public in First Aid continues to expand in many centres in the country. Divisions in Matabeleland and Umtali have travelled extensively to conduct regular First Aid classes in areas as far afield as West Nicholson, Tod's Hotel, Beit Bridge, Burma Valley, Odzi, Sheba, Stapleford, Odzani, Penhalonga, Old Umtali and in the Honde Valley. First Aid equipment has been set up in specific areas and re-training and supervision of equipment is a constant duty.



Wives of beef ranchers in the West Nicholson area have First Aid training, with wild life taking an interest.

Emergency equipment being checked and renewed. 24 stretchers, gas lamps, blood plasma are some of the supplies being stored.

In other Divisions Civil Defence training has been undertaken in the main centres and to farmers, where this was requested. Red Cross has been given an enormous responsibility in undertaking not only training, but supply of medical equipment, transport, blankets, feeding and in the looking after of children in certain areas. Regular exercises in getting trained personnel called up is necessary to make civil defence effective in an emergency or disaster. Courses for ambulance men, Police Reservists, B.S.A.P., personnel of Government Departments are requested and undertaken and the number of our voluntary instructors is stretched to the limit. In some areas there remains apathy on the part of the public, which is not easy to understand or to change.

Red Cross premises can be quickly converted into a casualty clearing station and V.A.D.'s training includes the setting up of saline infusion equipment.

The Red Cross Knows How To Use Your Money

Donations made to the Red Cross go to help humanity. The sick and disabled, the handicapped and the aged. First Aid Posts and ambulances are provided and staffed, holidays are arranged for children who have never had one, and old folks who would never have another.

Child Welfare and other clinics are administered, and auxiliary nurses trained to assist in hospitals and provide ward services, constantly, from year to year.

The Red Cross believes in helping people to help themselves, and training in the field of health improvement, is intensive and continuous.

The Red Cross co-operates with other societies, Governments and Municipalities for the relief of suffering in any form, from ill health to National emergencies and disasters. The Red Cross initiates a service where there is a gap. When a competent authority is prepared to accept the responsibility and expand, then the service is handed over, and a new need can be tackled.

Please remember these things, because if you wish to help, you can be sure your money will be well used. Donations should be sent to the Treasurer, Rhodesia Red Cross, P.O. Box 1406, Salisbury. Donation by Covenant, of at least three years' duration, gains tax relief. A detachable specimen form is opposite, which should be completed and returned to us, when we will prepare official forms for signature.
